PEOPLE: Let's Drive say off road enthusiasts as they set off for Switzerland

Posted on 31.08.16

Have you ever wanted to get into your car and just drive as far as the road takes you? Three guys from Dubai are doing just that.

Jamal Khan, Abdul Shamim and Haris Anwar from Let's Drive off-road group have set off on an ambitious drive from Dubai to Switzerland.

That's right, the Central European land of chocolate and watches, and what's more it's the first time that trio (pictured) have attempted a drive of this length.

The three began their grand tour on 28th August by taking a ferry from Sharjah to Bandar Abbas, from where they will drive through nine countries before reaching their final destination, Switzerland.

There they'll be joined by 15 other drivers and on 9th September the convoy will set off to explore Switzerland's picturesque roads.

As well as giving some love to the mountainous country, the group will also use their epic adventure to promote Dubai.

The group's Toyota FJ Cruiser proudly displays their Dubai licence plates and they'll mark the UAE's Year of Reading initiative by handing out a book every single day.

Founded in 2014, Let's Drive's members are brought together by their love for travel, off-roading, adventure and exploration.

Founder member Farhan want us all to get out of urban spaces and explore the world – even if we don't own a car or have a licence, you'll find a driving buddy at Let's Drive.

He says: "Get out of the city, travel, don't be tourist, be a traveller. Go and see the country side, take your camping gear, take your food and let's drive."
